BJC HOME CARE SERVICES BECOMES A PAPERLESS OFFICE
Enterprise Document Management Is Leading Home Health Into A New Era

Altoona, PA – October 3, 2006 – Delta Health Technologies, LLC (“Delta”) announced today that Enterprise Document Management (EDM) went live at BJC Home Care Services in St. Louis, Missouri on September 21, 2006.

EDM is designed to lead home health agencies into a new, fully paperless era. The solution manages the increasingly burdensome challenges that today’s home health agencies face, including chart completion quality assurance, staff shortages and turnover, and regulatory compliance. EDM enables the creation of an Online Medical Record (OMR), an exact digital copy of the paper medical record. In addition, it provides support for chart deficiency analysis and physician chart completion. The chart completion component allows physicians to more efficiently review, annotate, edit, and most importantly, digitally sign their medical records from any location.

“Delta Health Technologies is committed to delivering technology solutions that improve our customers’ outcomes,” said Keith Crownover, President and CEO. “We believe this solution has the ability to positively impact every home care and hospice organization in the country by eliminating waste while ensuring compliance with regulatory and accreditation standards.”

EDM’s web-enabled design improves and secures chart access while increasing availability of information. The features of EDM empower and increase staff productivity:

- Promotes physician affinity with web-based access to clinical information and digital signature from any location.
- Improves documentation turnaround times to help ensure compliance with JCAHO, CHAP, and state requirements.
- Reduces costs associated with paper workflows (paper, supplies, folders, toner, etc.).

- more -

- Eliminates off-site record storage costs.
- Supports HIPAA compliance with built-in HIPAA ready audit trails and access controls.
